

Your Buyer's Agent Wears Many Hats

Buying a home can be complicated! To guide your decisions, you'll want a trusted professional with extensive skills. You need an Accredited Buyer's Representative (ABR®).

Your buyer's rep can serve many roles.

Local Expert

Directs you to reliable sources of information to learn more about a neighborhood.

Market Analyst

Always has a finger on the pulse of the local housing market.

Earnest Educator

Explains every step of the buying process and puts your mind at ease.

Mortgage Maneuverer

Points you to qualified providers and helps coordinate transaction details.

House Hunter

Listens closely to your desires and keeps searching until you find an ideal home.

Cheerleader

Remains dedicated to helping you reach your goals.

Troubleshooter

Points out potential concerns and recommends other experts (like inspectors).

Pricing Strategist

Helps you evaluate a seller's listing price compared to other properties.

Resale Specialist

Guides your buying decisions with an eye to the future.

Nimble Negotiator

Assists in evaluating your options and negotiating the best contract.

Contract Navigator

Provides and explains standard real estate contracts, disclosures, and other documents.

Transaction Facilitator

Works with every other party to your transaction to help you reach the closing table.

Long-Term Supporter

Your buyer's rep can continue putting you in touch with local vendors as you maintain or renovate your home.

I am your ABR®

I'm your neighborhood Accredited Buyer's Representative (ABR®)! Please keep me in mind for all of your house-related needs.
